Visiting Garnet Mine

Miss L. M. Crafts of Minneapolis, Minn., a woman who has accomplished distinguished literary, philanthropic and civic service both local and national is at the property of the Alaska Garnet Mining and Manufacturing Co., of which organization she is president.

Miss Crafts was for 27 years Asst. Librarian of the University of Minnesota. For 12 years of that time she was also Secretary of the Public Library Board of Minneapolis, an elective office. At present she is Recording Secretary of the Woman's Home Missionary Union of Minnesota, Recording Secretary of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Interior, Chairman of the Committee on Literature of the Woman's Home Missionary Federation, the National organization of the Congregational Home Missions.

Miss Crafts is greatly interested in the recent development of Wrangell.

According to the Valdez Com-moner, the cats in that town are all dying with the catarrh Eubonic plague or something else. Wherever you go a sore eyed cat with half its hair and sometimes parts of its hide gone, is staring you in the face. The White Pass station at Caribou is open for the summer.

summer term of the United States District court has been set for July 7th at Iditarod. Judge Fredric E. Fuller will preside.

Whitfield Survey Cancelled

Advices from Washington to Trustee M. F. Inman inform him that the Whitfield survey of the town of Wrangell has been cancelled.

Suspicion of Foul Play

Dr. S. C. Shurick was called to Petersburg last night to examine the body of John Adams, the Indian boy who, it alleged committed suicide several weeks ago. Foul play is suspected and Walter Paul and his sister-in-law, Maggie Paul have been held by Commissioner Thomas to await an investigation by the grand jury.

YUKON NAVIGATION WILL BE LATE IN STARTING

According to word received the ice probably will not move out of Lake LaBarge for more than a week yet. It is solid at the present time and gives no promise of breaking up soon. At Skagway it is not believed that the first boat will sail from Whitehorse for Dawson until June 10th, and possibly later than that.

Comes Back With Hard Luck Story

After Three Months at Silver Creek Tom McGrath Returns and Tells a Tale of Woe

Tom McGrath of Victoria, who with his wife and 11-year old son went into the Silver Creek, B. C. region in the Cassiar, via Atlin, last March, returned to Wrangell by way of Telegraph Creek on the Port Simpson Sunday last.

Mr. McGrath says that they "mushed" 176 miles from Atlin with a dog team with supplies enough to last through the season. The trail was a hard one but after reaching their destination he discovered that he and the many others who had made the trip in, had been given a false tip, and does not hesitate in saying that through "Skookum" Jim and his confederates, his party barely escaped with their lives.

"Skookum" Jim, he says, came outside displaying gold of a high grade, stating that it came from Silver creek, and that the entire country was rich beyond expression.

His story was so alluring that McGrath and a number of others lost no time in getting into the country only to find that they had been flim-flammed.

McGrath was very bitter in his denunciation of the Canadian government because of the fact that no blazed trails or wagon roads had been established, and claims that the men who were induced to go into that region were "simply trapped, and it was no fault of the government that any of the party came out alive."

He says that Billy Leake and several others returned to Atlin as soon as they could after finding that they had been duped, but that he determined to give the country a thorough test. He sunk to bedrock at different places on the creek and says that he had to raise four buckets of water to one of dirt and that he never got a color.

Finally discouraged, he started with his wife and son to return to civilization and was fifteen days getting to Telegraph Creek. For ten days they were completely lost in the swamps and it was a matter more of luck than good management that they finally reached Telegraph. They lost their dogs in the swamps and were obliged to pack their supplies on their backs, the little boy, only 11 years old, carrying a pack of 17 pounds almost the entire distance.

There were, all told, about 300 men in the district, coming from Dawson, Nome, Porcupine, Cobalt and Montana. There are still about thirty men there.

Mr. McGrath reports that two were frozen to death and that one man had his feet frozen and was taken to Atlin. Another man was reported lost and scouts were out searching for him when he and his family left.

A man named Hankin, who had "mushed" over 600 miles into the camp arrived the day before McGrath started out, and after getting a report on the country immediately returned to Telegraph en route to the outside. Two other men who had come over 400 miles from Stewart, also turned back to Atlin on learning the true situation.

It would seem that Mr. McGrath took desperate chances when he allowed his wife and child to accompany him on a trip he knew so little about, and he should be thankful that they are safe once again from the perils that beset them from the time they left Victoria until their return.

Mr. McGrath and family left on the Spokane Monday evening for Victoria.

the company will begin operations in the near future and the citizens of Wrangell should be ready to extend to this company a hearty welcome.

BREAKS TAIL SHAFT

The Ida May broke her tail shaft a few days ago while near Baranoff and Capt. Cole, the master, was compelled to secure the Little Tom until such time as the shaft of the Ida May can be repaired. The captain said it would probably be a week or ten days before the repairs can be made.

Victim of Boob Poisoning

Ole Oleson, an employe at the Port Armstrong Whaling station, has been in the hospital several days suffering from blood poisoning in the hand. He is improving rapidly and will probably be able to return to his station next week.

Party Leaves for Dease Lake

George Probosco, and Sam Jones of San Francisco, and George E. Jackson of Oakland, have been guests at the hotel Wrangell for the past week awaiting the arrival of the Port Simpson. They left Wednesday morning on the Simpson en route to Dease Lake.

Now for the Glorious 4th

A meeting of the citizens of Wrangell was held at the town hall on Monday night to arrange for celebrating the Fourth of July in Wrangell.

Dr. L. P. Dawes was made chairman of the meeting and T. R. Needham acted as secretary.

A committee consisting of J. G. Grant, Frank Gingras and C. M. Coulter was appointed to make all further arrangements with power to appoint sub-committees.

A general invitation is extended to Petersburg and all other towns tributary to Wrangell to come on the 4th and have a good old fashioned time. Further notice will be given next week.

At the Catholic Church

Rev. Wm. Shepherd of Ketchikan, will arrive on the Humboldt and will hold the usual services at the Catholic church on Sunday next.

Capt. Halstrom of the Prospector has resigned and left on the Mariposa to take command of the Wieding Bros.

The first rain in seven months fell at Whitehorse on the 14th inst.

No Doubt Now That Work Will Soon Begin In Earnest--Wrangell to Be Greatly Benefited

The Pacific Builder in a recent issue says:

"The Alaska-Pacific Pulp and Paper Company, 522 White building, Seattle, is planning the building of a pulp mill at Wrangell, Alaska. There will be much preliminary work, consisting of dock building, road grading and camp facilities. A. G. Jex is president; I. H. Lightner, vice president; H. D. Farris, secretary-treasurer, with

L. W. Christy as one of the directors. Work is to begin this season."

This sounds good to the residents of Wrangell and it is to be hoped that the above is true. Until The Sentinel can obtain more of the facts from some member of the company we refrain from going into detail.

There is no doubt, however, that

Recent investigation show that it costs the government $3,200 to bury a dead congressman. Some of our exchanges are inclined to complain of this extravagant outlay; but it is a fact that there are several that the people would gladly see buried even at that cost.

A youngster, who was evidently well posted in current events, was recently asked by the teacher how the world was divided. His reply was, "between the sugar and oil trust and the Standard Oil Co."

There are two ways of wasting your money. One is to spend it so fast that it doesn't have any time to do good, and the other is to hold on to it so tight that it never gets a chance.

A great many young men, whom the doctors advise to take long walks and exercise with dumb bells to reduce their averdupoise, will stand around the house with their hands in their pockets while the little wife removes the tacks from the carpet, and then complain if she requests of her lord to pull it out from under the stove while she lifts the stove. O, man, thou art certainly a humbug.

Readers who would consult their pecuniary interest should not fail to closely examine the advertisements of our merchants, who advertise bargains in this paper. They mean business in every word they advertise and propose to make business by the bargains they are advertising. Peruse these advertisements carefully and call on these merchants for the bargains they are offering.

When your home merchant presents you with his bill do not allow the hair on your spine to rise like porcupine quills, and look as though you had been insulted. The chances are he trusted you for the shirt on your back and the groceries to keep your family. Speak kindly to him who has accommodated you for you know you like prompt pay in others. A man whose temper rises to ninety degrees in the shade when asked for a just account, and feels his dignity has been trampled on is a good man—not to trust.

Young man, young woman, let us whisper in your ear. By all that is good, by all that is holy, by this twentieth century of marvelous discovery and wonderful progress, if you don't wish to be left lying on your back, see to it that your education is not neglected while you have the time. If you haven't the time, take it. "A pound of pluck is worth a ton of luck." Do not let your God-given intellect wither for want of nourishment when our schools offer such splendid facilities wherewith to fit yourself for the best, the broadest and the noblest things of every day life.

There are some things that a level headed human being should never do. Among these is to kindle a fire with kerosene oil, to walk on a railroad, to attempt to get on a moving train, to point a gun or revolver at another, to put his name on another man's note, to keep his savings in an old stocking under the bed, to play a game of chance with a prepossessing stranger, to run for office when he has a paying position in private life, to call a bigger man than himself a liar, or to borrow The Sentinel from his neighbor—he should subscribe for it.

We call attention this week to our advertising columns. It will pay you to give them careful perusal. This much must be admitted in favor of the advertiser. He wants your business, he comes in to the open to bid for it, he puts his prices down in black and white where you can see what they are, he gives you his name and number and you will find him at the door ready to welcome you. The generous advertiser is invariably the generous fellow. He bubbles over with enthusiasm and when you meet him you feel like you had come in contact with an invigorating breeze right from the sea. The advertiser must be given credit for being a pusher and this is further attested by the fact that among the fellows, who, in "lives race," got there, he numbers nineteen to one compared to the fellows who meet land seekers' train to cop out here and there a prospective buyer whom the advertiser has brought into the country, or who sends small boys to stand before the doors of the advertiser to turn the crowds into his own doors. The advertiser indeed is the Siamese twin to the fellow who followed the biblical instruction and is not afraid to cast a little bread upon the waters.

Wrangell to Entertain

The following letter was received on Tuesday last and will prove of interest to the citizens of Wrangell and vicinity.

WRANGELL SENTINEL,
WRANGELL, ALASKA.

GENTLEMAN:

We are enclosing copy of a letter today addressed to the Wrangell Chamber of Commerce, advising them of our visit to the city of Wrangell on June 25. We are looking forward to derive much good from this trip, as the newspaper world promises to be strong. We have already received acceptances from the Atlanta Constitution, Washington Post, William Randolph Hearst, and Leslie's Weekly.

At the end of another week, we expect to have this list materially increased.

Looking forward with pleasure to our visit at Wrangell, we beg to remain

Yours very truly,
Alaska Bureau
J. J. McPherson
Secretary.

Following is the letter addressed to the Wrangell Chamber of Commerce: Wrangell Chamber of Commerce, Wrangell, Alaska.

Gentleman:

Seattle Chamber of Commerce will this summer, under the auspices of the Alaska Bureau, conduct a tour of Alaska. The party will number about one hundred and twenty including as our guest, ten eastern publishers. These men have been selected by ballot of the western publishers. We will visit the largest centers of population, view all Alaska's industries and points of wonderful scenic interests, covering a distance of about 8,000 miles. We will leave Seattle June 21, and expect to return about June 28.

We hope to reach Wrangell the evening of June 25. The territory to cover and the numerous stops necessary will make our stay with you, as with all others, brief. Our itinerary provides a four hours stop, during which time we want to meet as many of your citizens and visit as many points of interest as time will permit. We will advise you by cable from Ketchikan as to the probable time of our arrival.

We sincerely wish conditions would permit a longer stop, but this trip is made with the one purpose of educating our people through our guests, the publishers, as to the facts about Alaska, and we have agreed to return them to Seattle in about thirty-five days. The limitation is unavoidable, but another year, when we trust the necessity for quick and extensive publicity as to Alaskan conditions will not be so acute we hope again to make this tour and remain with you long enough to form closer ties of friendship.

As the representative commercial body of your city, we will be pleased to have you out-line the most advantageous manner of meeting your people, and seeing the important features of interest, subject necessarily to the time at our disposal with you. We would request that you kindly advise us as soon as possible of any such suggestions you may decide to make, and to these we will kindly conform. If you can not advise us as to your suggestions before our departure from Seattle, notify us, addressed to Ketchikan.

We expect much good from this tour, and through it we hope to secure many additional exhibits for our exhibit room, which is designed to contain a complete and compact display of Alaska resources and products. We will be grateful for any appropriate addition you may be able to secure for us.

Yours very truly
ALASKA BUREAU

Steps will be taken by the Wrangell Chamber of Commerce to arrange for the entertainment of the distinguished guests during their short stay in our city, and The Sentinel will keep its readers advised as to what will be done in the matter.

Notice to the Public

The Wrangell Sentinel
Wrangell, Alaska.
Gentlemen:

Please publish for the information of the Public and Postmasters throughout Alaska that all fees for Notaries Public and Foreign and Domestic Corporations should be remitted and made payable ONLY to the Secretary of Alaska. Exchanges please copy.

Very truly yours
Wm. L. Distin,
Secretary of Alaska.

LOOKS LIKE LIVE LOGIC

Every boy knows that to make a success of flying his kite, he must have a string on it. It is largely true in all the activities of life. A man is really at his best if he has from six to a dozen responsibilities with their mothers to hold him in tow. Remember it is the busiest man who is always called upon to take the lead in public affairs. Persons without home responsibilities scarcely ever see the bright and shining side of things because they have nobody to keep them steady and sweet naured—with out some one to talk to, love and even "obey." It keeps the minds from growing sordid and sour. The lonesome man ought to look for a lonesome woman, for misery loves company, and this would mean another happy home. We will dare any old batch to try this—Exchange.

SEARCH FOR GOLD

In many of the great city dailies there are frequently found expressions somewhat belittling the gold hunter, the prospector, the man who leaves civilization behind him and boldly strikes into the unknown regions of the earth, regions of deep canyons, high mountains,
raging torrents and mighty glaciers. It is not necessary that a hero shall be made of him, though the ancient troubadour and the modern poet point in tribute to the man who braves the dangers of the unknown, who delves in nature's rock-ribbed crust.

There men are neither heroes nor philanthropists, they are simply hardy scions of a hardy race seeking to better their condition, seeking the greatest of all material things, that which the world has striven for since the dawn of history; they are healthy, hardy, keen and sure footed, and not near so many of them suffer death from their privations and exposure as are killed by vicious mules or gored by ugly bulls in the home of the waving maize.

Every dollar they bring forth
from the wild is an added dollar to the measure of values and has been taken from no one else, the middleman is eliminated, directly from the hand of the miner to the mint, goes the golden product, thence
into the channels of commerce, giving greater scope to the manufacturing interests, a new blood in the arteries of trade.

The nomadic spirit which has given us the prospector, has made possible our railroads,
given us the wonderful 20th century development made the world what it is today, a glorious place to live in.

We hear of reservations to maintain nature in its primitive state that the denizens of the city may, at their pleasure, ramble at will through the rambles and soulfully commune with nature.

The prospector, roaming over the mountains sees nature at its best, witnesses the grand results of the ages, and meanwhile wrests from hidden resources wherewithal to continue his work in her onward march, arming no man, taking from
no man, but giving much.
California, Australia, The Island, Alaska but for the prospector would be but spots on the map.—Ex.

NOVEL RAILROAD

ENTERPRISE

The government's experiment in railroad ownership and operation in Alaska will be to use the railroads not as a money-making enterprise, but as a means of developing agricultural, mineral and industrial resources. Railroads in any sort of ownership have been a tremendous factor in the development of a region; but that development has been incidental to the business success of the railroad.

It will be a new thing to have the railroad's welfare an incident to the welfare of the region it serves.—Ex.

National Forest Timber For Sale

Sealed bids will be received by the Forest Supervisor, Ketchikan, Alaska, up to and including July 14, 1913 for 2,000,000 feet B. M. more or less, of Sitka spruce and Western hemlock saw-timber upon a designated area on the northeast shore of Vank Island, Tongass National Forest, Alaska. No bid of less than $1.00 per M. feet for saw-timber will be considered. Deposit with bid $200. The right to reject any and all bids reserved. Before bids are submitted for information concerning the timber, the conditions of sale, and the submission of bids should be obtained from the Forest Supervisor, Ketchikan, Alaska.

GIVING ALASKA A CHANCE

There is a healthy and pleasing prospect that the present session of Congress will take some action looking to the unbottling of Alaska. Encouraged by President Wilson and Secretary Lane, Congress seems to be taking some real interest in the distant gold lined and coal burdened territory and to be ready to do what should be done to aid the development of that much talked of and much abused country.

Seven years ago Congress passed laws to develop that territory. There was something done and Alaskan trade began to be a thing of moment to the Pacific Northwest. The process was halted, however, as a result of the scandals growing out of the Ballinger-Pinchot case and since that time little effort has been made toward an intelligent adjustment of Alaskan affairs.

There is now a fair chance of Congress giving the people of the territory a chance instead of making them buy outside coal or burn wood when there is abundant coal right at hand. There is also a chance of railroads being built by the government.

That is to say Alaska will be opened, but under such regulations as will protect all public rights, prevent abuses and will give the territory a chance. Monopoly in one section will not be permitted longer to enforce a bottle up brand of conservation in another and possibly competing territory, nor will monopoly be given new territory in which to work its will. That is as it should be. Alaska deserves a change.—Tacoma Tribune.

The Sitka Wharf & Power Company has ordered the machinery for a twenty-five thousand dollar power plant. The electricity will be generated from Sawmill Creek, and the company expects to be able to supply power to manufacturing concerns at Seattle prices.

The Union Construction Company of San Francisco, has a crew of men engaged in framing three gold dredges at the Schwager-Nottelmann mills in West Seattle. The dredges will be taken to Alaska and installed on the Seward peninsula. With in the last four years the building company has installed twelve dredges in this district. H. A. Ederman, representative of the Union Construction Company, who is in Seattle at the present time said that one of the dredges will be operated by Flodin & Hutton, of San Francisco. The dredge is equipped with a seventy-five horsepower gasoline engine and open line buckets. It will have a capacity of 1,500 cubic yards a day. The cost of construction will exceed $40,000. The two dredges will be equipped with 120-horse power engine and three foot close connected buckets, each averaging an output of 2,000 cubic yards a day. The cost of construction will be $65,000 each. The dredgers will be finished June 1st.

The first boat to sail for the Kuskokwim river this season was the power schooner Bender Brothers. About fifteen mining men went north on the Bender Brothers as passengers and her cargo consisted largely of mining machinery and supplies.

A visitor arriving on one of the last boats went out for a walk and after going some distance sat down in the sunshine with his back against a tree. He fell asleep, and when he awoke after an hour's nap, found that he was shaded from the warm rays of the sun by the leaves on the tree under which he was sitting. This bothered him, for he believed he had seated himself under a tree nude of all foliage. He did, but while he slept the leaves grew, and when he awoke the same tree was in full leaf. This shows how quickly Alaskan vegetation grows and how vegetable life will develop when a seed upon the stern sun. Aerial: Let the federal government smile upon Alaska by giving general legislation and the development of its vast resources will be as rapid as the growth of the leaves upon the trees in the spring.—Skagway Alaska.

EASTERNERS WANT ALASKA SALMON

Washington, May 28—A determined and well-sustained attempt is to be made to introduce one or two species of Alaska salmon on the New England Coast. The present condition of New England river precludes the possibility of re-establishing the large native salmon therein; but there is a prospect of introducing small species of Alaska salmon which spawn near the sea and would not be affected by obstructions and the greatly changed physical character of the head waters which for some years have practically prohibited natural spawning of the Atlantic salmon. The salmon that will be used are excellent food fish and will prove very acceptable substitutes for the native species.

SITKA WAKING UP

Plans are under way for the incorporation of Sitka under the municipal incorporation law for Alaska. The growth of the city and the assurance that it will continue to grow with the development of the resources and commercial possibilities have encouraged the citizens and property owners to take advantage of the opportunities offered by the law to become a municipal incorporation.
